Medical Service Graduate School at Walter Reed Army Medical Center on a new assignment.

Lieutenant Colonel Nina M. Baker (Franklin County, Mass., Public Hospital School of Nursing; B.S. Teachers College, Columbia) has been named chief of the nursing service of the U.S. Army in the Far East, succeeding Lieutenant Colonel Katharine V. Jolliffe, who has returned to this country to be chief of nursing service at Second Army Headquarters, Fort Meade, Md. Colonel Baker entered the Army Nurse Corps in June 1941 and was chief nurse of several hospitals in the European Theater before becoming director of nursing for the theater. Later she was on duty in the Office of the Surgeon General of the Army in Washington, D.C., as liaison representative on the Medical Equipment Survey Committee and then, after study at Teachers College, was assigned to Korea as chief of nursing service with the Eighth Army.

Lieutenant Commander Thelma Feezor (Riverside, Paducah, Ky.; B.S., Indiana University) is chief of nursing service at the naval hospital at Memphis, Tenn.

Commander Margaret L. Haley (St. Catherine's, Brooklyn, N.Y.; B.S., M.A., Teachers College, Columbia), former chief of nursing service at the Navy's hospital at Bainbridge, Md., has a similar assignment at the hospital at Chelsea, Mass.

Commander Rosalia Jorgenson (St. Marks, Salt Lake City, Utah), former chief of nursing service at the Great Lakes, Ill., naval hospital, is chief of nursing service at Bremerton, Wash.

Commander Thelma A. King (St. Alphonsus, Boise, Idaho; B.S., Teachers College, Columbia), recently chief of nursing service at the Chelsea hospital, has a similar assignment at Newport, R. I.

And in USPHS

The first two nurses to receive commissions in the commissioned reserve (inactive) of the U.S. Public Health Service are Vera S. Fry and Margaret M. Varley.

Mrs. Fry is professor of public health nursing administration at the University of California School of Public Health in Berkeley. She was formerly chairman of the department of nursing education in the New York University School of Education. Mrs. Fry (Jersey City Medical Center School of Nursing; B.S., John B. Stetson University, Miami; M.A., Ed.D., New York University) has been commissioned as a senior nurse officer, a grade equivalent to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the Army.

Miss Varley (Newcastle, Pa., Hospital School of Nursing; B.S., Duquesne University) is a school nurse in Youngstown, Ohio. She was an officer in the Army Nurse Corps during World War II and has served as instructor in home nursing in the Greater Cleveland Red Cross area. She is a senior assistant nurse officer, a rank comparable to that of captain.

Officers of the inactive commissioned reserve are available for active duty during a national emergency declared by the president of the United States. They will receive brief training in the public health aspects of civil defense and will remain in their present or other chosen positions unless an emergency is declared.

Margaret K. Schafer (St. Joseph's Mercy, Sioux City, Iowa; B.S., University of Minnesota), since 1947 assigned to the USPHS Division of Hospital Facilities as nurse consultant in the hospital survey and construction program, is now chief nurse in the Federal Civil Defense Administration Health Office, with headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich. Miss Schafer was operating room supervisor at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor when she joined the Army Nurse Corps in 1942. She served as chief nurse of the United Kingdom base and, after VE Day, as chief nurse for the European Theater. Later she served in the Office of the Surgeon General. She was commissioned in the USPHS in 1947 and now holds the rank of nurse officer.

Red Cross Appointments

Alice B. Hardy (Rhode Island Hospital School of Nursing, Providence; B.S., Teachers College, Columbia) has joined the Red Cross Eastern Area staff as nursing representative for West Virginia. Her previous experience included three years with the Army Nurse Corps, private duty nursing, school nursing, and directing the Cranston (R.I.) Visiting Nurse Association. She was recently chief nurse at the Huntington, W. Va., regional blood center.

Marie Louise Howard (St. Joseph, Paterson, N. J.; B.S., University of Pennsylvania) became assistant director of nursing service for the blood program in the American Red Cross Southeastern Area, Atlanta, Ga., on April 18. She has been assistant chief nurse at the New York Regional Blood Center, with responsibility for the educational and training program for both staff nurses and volunteers.

Mrs. Frances C. Nabbe (Methodist, Brooklyn, N.Y.; B.S., Teachers College, Columbia) has been named chairman of volunteers, American Red Cross, U. S. Forces in Austria, with headquarters in Salzburg. Mrs.

Obituaries

Lyda Anderson (Cook County Chicago, 1904), for many years with the American Red Cross and from 1924 to 1939 executive secretary of the Detroit District Nurses Association, died on June 11 at the Immanuel Lutheran Home in Omaha, Neb. Miss Anderson sailed on the "Mercy Ship" in October 1914 as supervisor of a unit consisting of 10 nurses and a physician. She set up a military hospital in Vienna, Austria, and served there for a time. Later she was decorated by the emperor for distinguished service. She returned to the U. S. in October 1915. For a few months in 1917 she assisted Jane A. Delano, who was then director of the American Red Cross Nursing Service, then became director of nursing service in the ARC Southwestern Division, covering Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. After two and one-half years, she was appointed assistant to Helen Scott Hay, director of nursing service for the Commission to Europe, and served until 1921 in the Paris Red Cross office. Leaving the Red Cross, she took the post of director of a school of nursing in Constantinople, serving there until her resignation because of ill health in 1924. After her return from Europe she studied at Teachers College, Columbia University, for the public health nursing diploma, before she went to the Detroit District Nurses Association.

Katherine E. Donley (Madigan Memorial, Houlton, Me., 1933) died on May 10 at her home in Houlton, following a short illness. Miss Donley was a private duty nurse for a short time and was later operating room supervisor at Madigan Memorial. After studying public health nursing at Catholic University of America, she joined the nursing service of the Maine Department of Health and Welfare and was a staff nurse there at the time of her death. She was active in professional organizations for many years and served on numerous state and district committees. She had been chairman of the state public health nurses section and first vice-president of the association and, since 1953, its president.

Commander Anna Gertrude Keating (Philadelphia General, 1914), retired, died in the naval hospital at Philadelphia, Pa., on May 19. She was appointed a reserve nurse in the Navy in 1917 and a Navy nurse in 1925. During more than 28 years of active naval service, Commander Keating served on the hospital ships, U.S.S. "Relief" and U.S.S. "Mercy"; as senior nurse corps officer in the 14th Naval District; and at the naval stations in the Philippines, on Guam, in the Virgin Islands, and throughout the U.S.

Mrs. Maggie Wilkes McNeill (Fennell Infirmary School of Nursing, Rock Hill, S.C., 1918) died on May 17, at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Durham, N.C. She served in the Army Nurse Corps during World War I and, for the past 25 years, served with the Veterans Administration in Oteen and Fayetteville, N.C.

Mary K. Mourot (Baptist, Little Rock, Ark., 1949) died on March 20 following an automobile accident. She had been a head nurse at Baptist from 1949-1952 and was a staff nurse at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Little Rock at the time of her death.

FOR YOUR CARE OF OBESITY... HERE'S "WILL POWER IN A CAN!"

That's how Dietene Reducing Supplement was described recently by a Philadelphia doctor . . . and that's exactly what it is to your obese patients. Here's why:

DIETENE solves the uncomfortable problem of between-meal hunger. Two Dietene Milk Shakes daily supply 36 grams of protein, fortified with essential vitamins and minerals. Thus, through sound nutrition alone, DIETENE satisfies both body hunger and the psychological craving for "something good to eat". With the between-meal hunger problem licked, patients find it easier to accept the reduced portions of interesting foods featured in the Dietene 1000 Calorie Diet.

DIETENE contains no drugs. It is normally safe even for cardiacs and hypertensives. It tastes good, mixes easily with milk and is economical. DIETENE assures patient cooperation.
