NATIONAL ALLOTMENTS JOURNAL

After the President had suitably replied to the welcome he delivered his presidential address, and adopted the Annual Report. A Wednesbury delegate made a most interesting discussion followed. Directly that section of the Report dealing with co-operation, Mr. John Robson gave some interesting figures relating to the value of business done by societies with their trading organisation is nothing like so great as it is expressed surprise that others had not done so, and made a high tribute to the uniform quality and high grade of the seeds supplied.

Mr. FARRINGTON: I raised questions relative to the allotments.

The Report was then adopted.

...helped to put the Society in a sound financial position.

The Resolutions

These were the subject of five resolutions and those who had sent in the five resolutions were given opportunity to speak to it. In its revised form the resolution read as follows:
