As the time of year when all good gardeners begin to take account of the season's work and, in a rough sort of way, draw up a profit and loss account. Of course nobody expected the long spell of dry weather (preceded by a very mild winter), to upset their calculations. But in spite of these unexpected difficulties, on the whole, appear to have done remarkably well—that is, many of our Shows, displays of fruit, flowers and vegetables, at the commencement, are anything to go by. Some of us, right in our seed potatoes, had a serious set-back owing to dry rot in the tubers. It may be cold comfort, but practically all our unemployed men seemed to get the impression that the situation in price of their potatoes from 6d. to 4d. per stone was a bearing upon the matter! May we assure them that the Let us hope for better things next year and, meanwhile, we would like to thank our affiliated societies and their district bodies all that they did to help their unemployed and impoverished members this season. In some districts there is still room for further development. We are amazed at the number of allotment holders who still fail to avail themselves of the scheme for one season or another. It is our job to see that all those who are in the position of the unemployed are enabled to take advantage of the scheme.

An additional stone which, next season, will be better than ever. The Crop and one stone of potatoes is to be allowed, viz. 4 stones weighable in weighing out as the potatoes will be put up in 4-stone bags.
